

Each model delivers on its promise of making the game easier—and more enjoyable—for lesser-skilled players. The Tour Edge Bazooka QL Iron-Wood is preferred, in the end, due to superior ease of use.

"The clubs are almost idiot-proof."
—Kevin DiNapoli (17)

"My usual ground attack with long irons turns into an air assault."
—Roger Liau (18)

"Shots just won't curve."
—Don Ytterberg (15)

"The heads glide on turf instead of digging too far into it."
—C.J. Bush (17)

WINNER Tour Edge Bazooka QL Iron-Wood

$599, steel; $679, graphite; touredge.com

The 15-gram tungsten weight boosts head stability and contributes to high-flying shots.

More MAX game-improvement irons tested!

Check out max game-improvement irons that we've ClubTested in the past year. You can read about them at GOLF.com/clubtest.

Models reviewed in May 2007

Adams Idea Tech OS
Cobra S9
Mizuno MX-19
Nike Ignite
TaylorMade r7 Draw
Wilson D17

Models reviewed in July 2006

Adams Idea a2 OS
Callaway Big Bertha
Nike Slingshot OSS
TaylorMade r7 CGB MAX